COMICS COMICS COMICS

I've been doing SO MANY THINGS in the past few months, and most of them are comics!

First off, I've just completed a collaboration with the fantastic Ty and Lee Blauersouth of Studio Interrobang called Lights Out.

Lights Out is a collection of two short horror comics about things beyond the reach of the light. In Ty and Lee's comic, "8 Minutes," an astronomer watches the stars disappear from the sky. My comic, "Hello?" follows an amateur spelunker into a cave that's been closed off for good reason.

We're all really proud of this collection. Lights Out will be debuting at Anime Detour this weekend, where Studio Interrobang is a featured local comic team. (I'll post a link here once it's for sale online.)

Secondly, I'm thrilled to announce that I'll have a comic appearing in Beyond, an upcoming anthology of queer SFF comics! It's a sweet little trans superhero romance. Remember these two from a few months back?

Yeah, it's their story. I fell head over heels for Chevron and Felix while writing the script, and I couldn't be happier to bring them to Beyond.

And last but emphatically NOT least...holy crap, I'm gonna be in Smut Peddler 2014.

My friend Abby Lark wrote the most adorable little pegging comic you've ever seen, and I'm drawing it. We came into this project late as pinch hitters, and being included is, frankly, a totally intimidating honor. I've been reading a lot of these creators' work for YEARS, and based on the comics I've read so far, I'm pretty sure this book is going to beat the pants off Smut Peddler 2012.

The Smut Peddler 2014 Kickstarter just launched a few hours ago and is already jogging toward fully funded. Check it out here!

More project news later. I've gotta go crawl into my comics drawin' nest and get some work done.
